

SASHA STILES

Artist | Greater New York

Sasha Stiles is a first-generation Kalmyk-American poet, language artist, and AI researcher working at the nexus of text and technology, known for her pioneering experiments with generative literature and blockchain poetics. Her practice refracts heritage and tradition through disruptive studies of creativity and consciousness, exploring human voice in a machine age.

Having collaborated with artificial intelligence since 2018, Stiles' insights and innovations have earned her a place among the most influential contributors to our global discourse about the future of art, technology and humanity. From the hybrid collection Technelegy (2021), co-authored with a personalized AI-powered text generator and praised by Ray Kurzweil, to award-winning projects such as "Cursive Binary" and "Repetae," her groundbreaking work considers poetry as both art form and technology – an ancient, enduring data system that encodes human experience across space and time. Through seamless integration of text, transmedia art and creative technologies like machine learning and blockchain, Stiles situates AI within the broader continuum of linguistic innovations that have always rewritten what it means to be human.

Stiles' work has been honored in the Prix Ars Electronica, Sigg Art Prize, Lumen Prize, Optimism AI Awards, and Future.Art.Awards, and nominated for the Pushcart Prize and Best of the Net; featured by MoMA, Artforum, Christie's, NPR, the Washington Post, and Poets & Writers; and presented at numerous venues worldwide, including Lincoln Center, the V&A, Art Basel, Art Dubai, SCOPE, Seattle Art Fair, Kunsthalle Zurich, Outernet London, Tokyo's Shibuya Crossing, and New York's Times Square. Stiles also partners selectively with such global brands as Gucci and Bang & Olufsen.

A graduate of Harvard and Oxford, co-founder of experimental literary collective theVERSEverse, and longtime poetry mentor to humanoid android BINA48, Stiles lives near New York City with her husband and studio partner, Kris Bones.

sashastiles.com
@sashastiles